PORTLAND CEMENT PLANT TO REOPEN TUESDAY MORNING

The Portland Cement Company will resume operations on next Tuesday at its big plant near town, putting to work 200 men. The plant is to run at full force to catch up on the large orders that accumulated since the plan suspended operations three months ago.

Among the big orders to be filled is the contract to furnish all the cement for the Bayshore highway now being constructed from Redwood City to Palo Alto. Many tons of material will be used in this construction.

A large portion of the men laid off when the plant closed are to be taken back with a number of others. The organization is to run night and day shifts.

Redwood City is certain to feel the effects of the opening of this industrial plant. Businessmen will be encouraged by the prospect of more trade. The unemployment problem is to be partly solved by resumption of work in the big plant.

Peninsula Will Get $1,870,000 Gas Line Ext'n

San Francisco will have a second, and larger, gas feeder line by autumn to supplement the existing 20-inch main. The Pacific Gas and Electric Company will immediately begin construction of 45 miles of 26-inch high pressure transmission pipeline between this city and Milpitas, where it will tie in with the coast line and the San Joaquin valley line from Kettleman Hills.

The new project will cost $1,870,000 and will provide six months' employment for approximately 200 workmen. It will greatly increase San Francisco's fuel supply to take care of present and future requirements and, at the same time, will provide an alternate source of supply to guard against interruptions in service in case of damage to one line.

To Follow Skyline

The new pipeline will start at the San Mateo county line near the intersection of Alemany boulevard and Junipero Serra boulevard and will extend along the Skyline boulevard to a point west of Stanford University. From there it will be routed in a southerly direction to a point near the Sunnyvale airship base, whence it will run to the Milpitas metering station via Alviso.

The San Francisco end of the second feeder was begun several months ago and is now nearing completion. It consists of seven miles of 26-inch main and extends from the Pacific Gas and Electric gas plant in the Potrero to the San Mateo line, being routed along Alemany boulevard for a considerable part of the way. It is costing $350,000.

Co-operates with S. F.

The company advanced this portion of the project to co-operate with the city in its public improvement program. In view of plans to pave Alemany boulevard, the work was rushed through to avoid cutting into new pavement. The company even detoured the line around sections of the boulevard already paved.

The existing supply line into San Francisco was completed in August, 1929. It parallels the Bayshore highway for the greater part of the way up the peninsula. Plans for the second feeder were launched several months ago, in view of rapidly growing demands for natural gas. The winter months have been spent mapping the route and obtaining the right of way.

Redwood City Hen Lays Egg Of Large Size

Where the climate's best by government test the hens lay bigger and better eggs.

A Rhode Island Red hen, owned by Mrs. James Borgie, 869 Jefferson street, produced an egg today almost ostrich-like in size. It measured seven and seven-eighths inches one way and six and five-eighths inches the other, in circumference. The hen is nine months old.

Whereupon a local wag remarked that it wouldn't take many of these eggs to make a dozen.

Mrs. J. D. O'Keefe Passes in Menlo

Residents of Menlo Park lost one of their foremost and most beloved citizens with the passing of Mary Agnes O'Keefe last Saturday at her Menlo home where for 37 years she had resided with her late husband, J. H. O'Keefe.

Mrs. O'Keefe was a native of New York but came West with her parents at an early age. San Francisco was chosen as their seat of destination and it was there that the young lady grew up and attained her education. Almost coincidentally, Mr. O'Keefe was wrapped in similar circumstances, having left Pennsylvania at the age of 5.

A very happy marriage resulted between these two, and though they had no children of their own, their open hearts provided a home for a foster daughter, Miss Eleanor Carroll O'Keefe. She now survives her foster parents as does Mrs. O'Keefe's sister, Mrs. David Kirby of San Jose, and two brothers, Dennis and Jeremiah Carroll of San Francisco.

Dennis Carroll has for the past 28 years been trainer of the San Francisco Seals but recently resigned his position to take charge of the Detroit Tigers, now training on the Stanford campus ball ground.

The last rites were celebrated at 9:30 Monday morning at the Church of Nativity with a solemn requiem and high mass. Interment followed in the family plot at Holy Cross Cemetery, Menlo.

MRS. EMMA BURKE DIES IN ALAMEDA

Mrs. Emma M. Burke, 81, widow of the late BartBurke, former state senator from San Mateo and later a San Francisco lawyer, died this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Anna D. Hayes, 1135 Morton street, Alameda. She had been ill for the last year. Services will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, Alameda. Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Martha Calhoun.

Bart Burke was state senator from this county and Santa Cruz in 1893. James. T. O'Keefe was then the assemblyman from San Mateo county. Both legislators framed a bill and had it adopted and signed by the governor, making Pebble Beach, Pescadero, a public park. The beach property was owned by the late Loren Coburn who would permit no one to go on the land. The people there protested. A war was on but Coburn was stubborn and steadfast in refusing entrance to the famous playground. A campaign issue, to open the beach to the public was made by the citizens. Burke and O'Keefe pledged themselves to find a remedy and they proved themselves men of their word.

SPRECKELS EST. DISTRIBUTION IS AUTHORIZED

Mrs. Alma Rosekrans Of Woodside Among Beneficiaries

With its total reduced $3,000,000 in the past year, the $16,000,000 estate of Adolph B. Spreckels, late California sugar magnate, was ordered distributed yesterday by Superior Judge Frank H. Dunne in San Francisco.

Distribution in accordance with the sugar king's will will place the entire estate in trust for the benefit of Mrs. Alma de Bretteville Spreckels, the widow, and her children, Mrs. Alma Spreckels Rosekrans, noted Woodside horsewoman; Miss Dorothy Spreckels and Adolph Spreckels Jr.

Revenue from half the trust will go to the widow. The children will divide the income from the remaining half up to the time of her death. Upon her death the children will receive the entire estate.

Payment of specific bequests, taxes, attorneys and executors' fees and other expenses of administration have reduced the estate by $3,000,000 the past year, it was brought out during the hearing.

None of the heirs was present for yesterday's proceedings. Mrs. Spreckels, now in Europe with the two younger children, was represented by the law firm of Cushing & Cushing. Attorney Eustace Cullinan appeared for Dorothy Constance and Adolph Frederick Spreckels. William H. Metson was there to represent Mrs. Rosekrans. J. F. Shuman and his firm appeared for the estate.

PUBLISHERS HIT AUTO ASSOCIATION PUBLICITY POLICY

Publicity practices of certain automobile associations operating in the state are condemned in a motion adopted by the executive committee of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, it was announced Wednesday by George F. Morell, vice president of the organization and president of Peninsula Newspapers, Inc.

The motion follows: "Because certain automobile associations and clubs of the state are selling insurance in competition with local agencies and in order to increase their insurance business are attempting to force free publicity into the columns of member newspapers in the guise of news, the executive committee of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association urges all its members either to discard such publicity or run it at regular advertising rates."

Highway To Cross Spur At Air Base

The railroad commission in an order issued Wednesday granted an application of the State Department of Public Works to construct the Bayshore highway at grade over the tracks of Southern Pacific Company railroad spur serving the United States Naval Air Base near Sunnyvale, Santa Clara county.

The decision of the commission states that while it is desirable to keep the Bayshore highway free from grade crossings, it does not appear that under present conditions the expense of a separation is justified. In view of the fact that this section will be a part of a high speed highway artery, when it is paved and becomes a part of the main Bayshore highway, trains moving over the highway on the track involved should be announced by signals as well as illuminated. Train movements over the crossing, the decision states, will be infrequent and at slow rates of speed.

STOCKHOLDERS SUE PACKERS, ALLEGE DEFICIT

Virden's Declaration Of Dividends Leads To $278,750 Suit

Filing of a $278,750 lawsuit by more than 100 stockholders of the Virden Packing Company and the allegation that there exists a $3,000,000 deficit came in Redwood City yesterday as an echo of the announcement a few days ago that the directors had declared an $8 dividend to be paid stockholders as of record yesterday.

Superior Judge Franklin Swart issued the restraining order requested by 114 stockholders headed by Ed Ameg to prevent payment of the dividend pending a court hearing here on March 3 at 10 o'clock.

Money to pay the dividend has been secured from a $732,000 payment made to the Virden Packing Company upon the death in January, 1932, of Charles Virden of South San Francisco, president of the firm. He was insured for $1,000,000 in July, 1930, for the benefit of the firm, the complaint states.

Concealment Charged

This insurance has not been mentioned in any of the financial statements issued by the company, Ameg and the other stockholders named in the present litigation declare. The concealment is called a "pre-concocted scheme in an effort to defraud the stockholders and to deplete and wreck the defendant, the Virden Packing Company." The dividend will divert $320,000 from the firm, the complainants aver.

The dividend, it is alleged, is declared in the face of the fact that prior to the fall of 1930 the outstanding capital stock consisted of 42,000 shares of a par value of $100, or $4,200,000. The par value has been reduced to $25, it is declared, and by so doing, the directors are charged with "cancelling and concealing an actual deficit of $3,150,000."

Stock Drops to $2

The $278,000 which is asked is based on the drop of the market value of the stock from $100 per share to $2 per share.

Ameg's suit, which was filed yesterday, will take the place of a previous one filed by a group of stockholders headed by him on February 13. It asked a like sum To that suit, the firm today demurred, saying that the action is barred because of unreasonable delay. Hearing on the demurrer is expected on March 10.

FREEHOLDER CANDIDATES TO BE NAMED

Charter Committee Will Act, Speed Up Movement

Decision to authorize a committee of five to select 15 persons who will be candidates for the board of freeholders to frame a charter for San Mateo county was reached yesterday by the general committee of the country charter study group following a meeting at San Mateo.

Frank Burrows, chairman of the general committee, and Frank McVeigh, executive secretary of the county charter study committee, said that the element of time was involved, and that candidates had to be nominated by March 29. Candidates must be endorsed by at least 1,134 registered voters.

Elmore B. Hinman, county clerk, suggested from the floor that a more popular method of selecting the freeholders' slate would be by holding mass meetings in the various districts and giving the people the opportunity to say who should run.

Debater Finds Only One Side To Annexation

With teachers and politicians presenting only the side in favor of annexation of San Mateo county to San Francisco, students in the metropolis who wish to debate merits of the question find, themselves without a source to secure data to offset the arguments.

She is a student at the Girls' High School and has been given the negative side in a debate on consolidation. She asks that Wyatt or some other San Mateo county resident give her arguments against the plan.

The Vale of Aragon

By Fred McLaughlin

He stabbed me with a baleful eye. "You might not deem that quite so clever, Senor, if you had known that I am familiar with your English."

"You offer doubtful compliment; it would not have been clever at all, Your Majesty, if you were unfamiliar with the language of my native land."

"Then you are not Sourdez," he said, "christened Timoleon?"

"Of course not. Timoleon was only a screen. I am Loren Garde, and my father owns plantatior

"You have followed the Senorita from New Orleans."

"Not so, Senor."

"Yet, you are here."

"Aye, but by no wish of mine did I leave New Orleans."

Now he brought another charge against me: "You have made a fool of me before the people of Caracas."

"I have arrived upon this earth too late to make a fool of you, Senor."

Anger blazed in his eyes, died, then he smiled; yet his smile was a less pleasing thing than his anger. "The recklessness of the condemned, eh? I have seen it in men who are looking upon death."

"If the dead city of Tucayan is a fair example I am sure you have seen much of it."

"Tucayan is only a hint of what we intend to do to revolutionary Venezuela; they understand only the rule of force."

"Yet the rule of force, Senor," said I, "has always been a rule of failure. That is a lesson Spain has never learned."

He showed white teeth in a grim smile. "What lesson, then, do you gain from Tucayan, which we destroyed?"

"The last man in that dead city, a graybeard patriot, died in my arms, and with his last breath he cried, 'Viva Bolivar!' If a lesson is desired—"

"Carraca!" Adolfo's face went pale, and his manner, for an instant, was that of a hunted animal.

"Carraca, indeed, Senor; the reign of murder in Venezuela is nearly over, and your judgment tells you that it is, though ambition speaks another language. Spain has destroyed the wealth of Bolivar, a passing thing in any case, but this spirit—ah!"

"A rebel!" cried Adolfo. "Some day we will hang him in the Plaza San Jacinto."

"Spain has sought Bolivar now for just ten years, Senor, and failed. You will have to deal with Bolivar, and when you do—"

"When we shoot you, Senor Americano tomorrow morning in the plaza before the great cathedral, Simon will lose another patriot, is it not so?"

"My father's arm is long," I said; "he has powerful friends in America, chief among them being Gen. Andrew Jackson, who will doubtless be our next president. I have sent a letter to my father, and if aught befalls me—"

"Bah!"

"Spain in Venezuela can ill afford to lose the friendship of the United States."

Adolfo grinned. "We stand to lose no friendship by executing a revolutionist, a man caught in the act of mutiny, a half-mad French sailor named Timoleon Sourdez, who brought a sacrilege upon the church. We know nothing of Loren Garde, son of the wealthy Senor Garde of New Orleans, friend of Andrew Jackson."

I was silent for the simple reason that I had nothing to say, for I knew that his stand might seem a logical thing.

"For what purpose did the Senorita Lamartina visit you today?"

"She came to offer me an invitation to her wedding."

He snarled. "Does the droll Americano imagine that the noble lady of Spain might love him?"

"One never knows."

"Yet, loving you, why should she wed me?"

"A question, Colonel, which you yourself might answer."

Adolfo's laughter rang through the house. "Assuredly; she does not love you. She must have her sport—and the lovelorn Americano offers himself. You do not understand women, eh, Senor?" He combed his black beard with heavy fingers. "The poor loco carries his heart upon his sleeve."

"Yet it required a gorgeous lie to bring her to the altar with you."

Adolfo swore softly. "She—she told you that."

"Aye," said I, filled with a large conceit; "when the Senor Fuentes tried to stab a stupid ladrone in the city of New Orleans he lost his lady-love."

"Carraca!" he cried, reaching for a weapon as I swung upon his jaw, the bitterness that was in my heart finding full expression in violent action. He fell back against the wall, his right hand came up swiftly, bearing a pistol, but I struck his elbow and the gun clattered to the floor.

Now, holding him against the wall with my left hand at his throat I drew back my right arm. "I have dreamed of a time when I should get my fingers on that fat neck of thine, Adolfo, and hold them there until the breath shall leave thy body; I have pictured that cynical face of thine as a punching-bag for my fist—so!"

He cried out in pain at my blow. "The Senorita told me this afternoon, Adolfo, that, tomorrow, she would wed thee." I laughed. "I shall see to it that thou dost not make a handsome bridegroom."

But my little minute was over all too quickly, for the guards rushed in and dragged me away from him. He caressed a bruised jaw with tentative fingers, tried a couple of teeth that were doubtless loose, spat a crimson blob upon the floor, and filled the air with a sulphurous flow of profanity.

I laughed aloud. "This day, Adolfo, has had a fullness of a lifetime, and tomorrow's sun will find me ready."

"Yet life," he said quickly, "might still be sweet to you? There is yet a way to win freedom. You may save your life on condition."

I waited.

"That you leave Caracas tonight, and La Guaira tomorrow, and—"

"What else, Senor? I am waiting."

"That you tell me, now, where the Senorita Lamartina is."

"Name of G—d, Senor! Do you mean?"

"The American is doubtless a clever actor; if he will tell me where I may find the Senorita he will see the way made open for a safe journey to New Orleans."

It came to me then that Adolfo hesitated to bring about my execution and hoped thereafter to win the Senorita's love.

"You and she must have had some understanding," he continued, "for within the hour after she had returned to the home of the Senora Mendoza, we discovered that she had disappeared as completely as though some mythical air-god had carried her away. Polito, greatly agitated because of her vanishment, aided in the search, but to no avail. We have combed the city for hours, with no sucess. If you would win your freedom you will tell us whither she has gone; if not the morrow shall find you facing a firing squad."

I knew Adolfo would never keep his word, even had I been able to give him any information. "If the Senorita does not care to keep you advised of her plans, surely you cannot expect me—"

"Very well," he said; "we will place you for the night in a safe little cage that we may count on finding you tomorrow morning."

So, with four guards on each side and Colonel Fuentes bringing up the rear, we marched out of the house of Tomas Carrasco, crossed the patio, and bent our steps toward the gloomy pile of weathered stone whose dungeon-like chambers had held so many unfortunates.

Tanforan Will Open March 31

Racing at Tanforan this spring will begin Thursday, March 31, and conclude on Saturday, May 14. In the 39 days of the sport, it was announced today by the Pacific Coast Breeders' Association, six stakes and other valuable features will be decided.

The five stakes run for the first time in the spring of last year will be renewed and to that list—the Tanforan Spring Special, the Derby Candidates Handicap, the Governor Rolph Handicap, the Bay Area Handicap and the Au Revoir Handicap—will be added the Oakland.

Indications are the class of horses in both the stakes and in the overnight events will be as high, probably a bit higher, than the gallopers that thrilled immense throngs at the previous four sessions of the great pastime since its revival two years ago.

The "big race" of the period of racing to open the last day of next month is the Governor Rolph Handicap, the feature on Governor's day at the course, probably Saturday, April 23. This stake attracted a record-breaking crowd at its first running. To make it even more enticing to the fans, the distance has been changed from six furlongs to one mile and an eighth. The "Rolph" has not less than $5,000 added.

Motion pictures showing work incidental to the construction of the huge Mokelumne river dam by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company were exhibited at the dinner meeting of the Redwood City Exchange Club in Hotel Sequoia last night. The speaker was E. M. Seale. Pres. Al Davies was chairman in the absence of Wesley Locker.

Mrs. Gatchell's Home Scene Of Society's Meeting

The home of Mrs. C. H. Gatchell on Grand street was the meeting place Tuesday for the Women's Society of the Baptist church. Mrs. Julia Conwell was hostess for the afternoon. Mrs. D. Fred Gatchel was guest of honor.

Following a brief business session, Mrs. R. E. Stephens gave a talk on American Indians.

Among those present were Mesdames D. W. Coffill, D. J. Tuohy, H. B. Whitney, Fred Staples, L. A. Butt, B. O. Sullivan, J. E. Hawthorne, F. E. Johnson, F. W. Seymour, J. J. Oehrli of Palo Alto, W. E. Walter of New York and Miss Lucille Conwell.

Foresters Plan Card Party

Court Madrone, Foresters of America, is arranging a card party at 8:30 o'clock for the evening of Friday, March 4. It will be given in Foresters Hall, and the customary charge of 25 cents will be made for score cards.

Garden Section Of Club To Preside At Plant Sale

Of interest to garden lovers will be the next meeting of the Redwood City Woman's Club on March 3, when the annual plant sale is to be conducted by members of the garden section under the chairmanship of Mrs. Rupert Johnson of San Carlos. Various kinds of plants and shrubs will be sold, and none of them will be marked more than 25 cents. There is promised a variety of slips.

The garden section is attaining a measure of success this year, both in membership and in its activities, and the plant sale promises to be one of the largest yet given by the group.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. W. Bradford Kelley, is arranged with a view toward providing interest for those members whose thoughts turn, at this time of the year, to trowels and flower catalogs, and the speaker for the afternoon will be a member of the Sunset magazine editorial staff, who is to talk about gardens and their care.

Epworth League Members Attend 13th Convention

A number from the Epworth League of Redwood City attended the 13th annual convention of the order in Pacific Grove February 20 to 22.

Meetings were held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. R. L. McArthur is pastor. The theme of the convention this year was "Christian Citizenship." Robert Jones, president of the league there, was official host.

A number of pertinent talks were made during the three-day program, including several by Louis M. Fiske, a missionary maintained at Costa Rico by the Epworth League of the state, who is in California on a year's leave of absence.

Election of officers for the coming term resulted in the following staff for the district: Fillmore Grey of San Jose, president; Alvin Cheetham, San Mateo, vice-president; Dighton Hobblett, Santa Cruz, treasurer; Miss Vera Helgesen, San Francisco, secretary.

Presidents of the Alliance are Douglas Nesbitt, San Francisco; Miss Marian Cavassa, San Mateo; George Ferrier, Santa Clara, and Miss Ethel Frapwell, coast counties. Herbert Beckner, the retiring president, becomes counselor.

There were present 194 members. Those from Redwood City were Mrs. Thomas Vernall, Miss Ellen Adams, Miss Gertrude MacPherson, Miss Elsie Thorn and Fred Schmitz, formerly an Alliance president.

Y. L. I. Plans Breakfast To Follow Service

Annual communion will be received by the members of the Young Ladies' Institute next Sunday morning at a mass to be read at 8 o'clock. Following the service, the young women are to have breakfast at the Cafe de Paris. Miss Cecilia Pollard is chairman of a committee arranging details of the breakfast.

Woodside

How do you tell that spring is at hand, you readers of the Times-Gazette? Do you look at a printed calendar and, seeing that it is near the first of March, say, "Spring is nearly here." Or do you go into the woods and note the trillium or wake-robin sending up its little group of colored leaves that pass for a flower, or notice the great hand-like leaves of the buckeye bursting along the stems or the wild white and tinted violets looking up above the surrounding grass?

Mother Nature gave us a preview of spring over the week-end and many house parties were scheduled in Woodside to include the Monday holiday. The Woodland trails attracted many vacation parties afoot and on horseback. A list of sometimes Woodside residents visiting their homes here would furnish a complete roster of our summer colony.

The combined basket social and card party planned for Friday night by the Parent-Teacher Association has been changed to a plain card party. It is rumored that the change was brought about by jealousies between those ladies who expected to dispose of their baskets by their personal charms as supper companions and those others who believed that their reputations as cooks should determine the value of the supper basket. This has cheated those men who have been eating the same cooking opposite the same supper companion for many years out of an expected thrill.

A. J. Zaepffel and family drove to Eureka last week for a sight of the redwood forests under their mantle of snow. The roads gave no trouble but the drifts were heavy along the road side and the dry snow hung like fringes of wool from the drooping branches of the trees.

A new garage is being built on the August Schilling property to take the place of the one destroyed by fire several weeks ago. Burlingame contractors have the job.

Captain Ghent, United States army, retired, has just taken possession of the home recently completed for him in Woodside Glens.

Mrs. Houser has sold her place on the Portola road to W. R. Foley of New York. Mr. Foley and family will return to New York for a short stay after which they will make Woodside their permanent residence.

The Lawrence Hammonds who have spent the winter at their home here, have closed their house for a short period which will be spent by them on a business trip in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Mein and family were down for the week-end and holiday. They will be here for the Easter vacation period and expect to open their house for the summer sometime in April.

Wild pigeons, reported as a nuisance last week at Livermore, have, in the course of their migrations, reached Woodside in large numbers. They settle so thickly upon the trees as to almost obscure the branches on which they alight and recall stories of the early settlers in the middle west about the enormous flocks of passenger pigeons then to be seen in that part of the country.

There is much jubilation in Woodside homes over the prospect of fuel gas to be brought to this neighborhood by the new gas main from Kettleman Hills, construction of which is now being begun.

The pupils of the Portola School are arranging their celebration in honor of George Washington and as a background therefor they have planned to build a replica of the portico of his Mount Vernon home.

Practice is under way for the annual handball tournament which is the classic athletic contest at the Woodside school. Marian Neuman is the champion since last year's contest but her supremacy is being hotly challenged at this time.

Submerged Craft Is Raised To Surface

Aided in their efforts to raise the 38-foot tug "Eagle" from its resting place at the bottom of the Redwood City yacht harbor by a low tide yesterday afternoon, a crew of men succeeded in getting a line aboard the submerged craft and towed it to the mud flat near the clubhouse yesterday to be pumped out and refloated today.

The "Eagle," owned by W. Thompson of San Jose, sunk at her berth Saturday night when a seacock was left open. A motor-driven pump operated by Joe Smith, city mechanic, was used in the salvage operations, in which Dick Svihus of the Redwood City Yacht Club assisted. No damage was done to the boat.

DUMB THIEF

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — There's one thief in this city whose dumbness is going to get him into jail one of these days. He stole a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Margaret Moore. Detectives searching for the thief found the pocketbook. The robber had taken 20 cents from it, but had left a watch, rings and other jewelry in it. He evidently overlooked the most valuable part of the loot.

STATE RALLYING TO SUPPORT SHORTRIDGE

The numerous friends of Senator Samuel M. Shortridge throughout San Mateo County are pleased to learn the good news from Washington of his recovery from his recent illness. No citizen that has ever held that high position was more beloved than Mr. Shortridge.

Almost every section of the state is endorsing him for re-election. The San Mateo County Repulican Committee that recently adopted resolutions pledging him its support has been followed by the Napa Republicans who adopted similar resolutions.

The Napa Register, one of the oldest Republican journals of the state, pays Mr. Shortridge the following tribute:

Entire California, regardless of party affiliation, rejoices that Senator Samuel M. Shortridge has so well withstood the shock of his recent serious operation and welcomes the good news that he will soon be his hale and hearty self again. Which, at the senator's mature age, speaks volumes for the natural ruggedness of his constitution and the regularity of his personal habits.

During the eleven years of his tenure in the United States senate, Shortridge has shown himself a master of constructive statesmanship and the upholder of parliamentary dignity befitting a great and rapidly growing commonwealth. Chief amongst his legislative qualifications is a rigid adherence to party principles in advancement of administrative programs, rather than in mere political policies or sectional expediencies.

Shortridge has the reputation of being a "regular," and in every shade of meaning with which that much abused word has been invested. In other words, California's junior senator, throughout his entire tenure, has placed himself solidly behind the various programs of the Republican administrations and has ever fearlessly, by personal advocacy and senate vote, cast the weight of his prestige toward the carrying out of those platform planks upon which his chief—the president of the United States— was chosen by vote of a majority of our citizens.

The resolution, unanimously passed recently by the Napa County Republican Central Committee, heartily endorsing Senator Shortridge's candidacy for the Republican nomination of the United States senate, therefore is not only a fine tribute to the solon's sterling worth as a legislator working intelligently for the common good, but is also a splendid testimonial of the high personal regard and genuine affection in which he is held by the people of all faiths, parties, and classes throughout the entire state.

THE ARTIST'S DILEMMA

A radio magazine in Cleveland, Ohio, bewails the refusal of the newspapers to print the brand and trade names given radio programs and radio artists by advertisers.

"The New York papers go so far as to give in their radio columns the 'Palm Olive' program as 'Virginia Rea,' which happens to be the real name of 'Olive Palmer' which latter is her radio name," complains the magazine. "Except in a few instances the names of the artists or the names of the orchestras mean nothing to newspaper readers."

Artists and orchestras have welcomed this newspaper policy with shouts of joy. If Virginia Rey builds up a reputation under her own name, the rewards of that reputation are hers; if she is known to the public only under the soapy pseudonym trade marked by and belonging to the advertiser, some other singer can be substituted any day, taking from Virginia Rea the reputation and the rewards thereof which are rightfully hers.

Radio listeners should know that in most instances the Dish Pan Symphonists, the Perforated Doughnut Musical Demons, the Sheep-Dip Scintillators and the Hair Oil Harmony Dispensers are the same station musicians hired by the month, changing nothing, not even their seats and expressions, as they change from one trade name to another.

If the commercial-radio practice of hiding the identity of artists, musicians and other performers under fictitious names were carried to its logical conclusion, the New York Symphony Orchestra might become the Supreme Axle Grease Symphonic Squeak Eradicators, Philadelphia's famous Philharmonic might appear on the radio bill-of-fare as the Monarchs of Music and Rosa Ponselle might be forced to perform as Senorita Pepso Denta.

Give the artist his due. In that babble of nauseating sales talk, to quote the chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, which constitutes the present-day radio program, the artist has to be very good to make the distracted, irritated listener appreciate his performance. If he can do it, he is entitled to full credit for his work.—Ventura Free Press.

THE BARNARD IDEAL

The 482 Barnard College young ladies showed some variance in filling out the questionnaire on what the ideal husband should be. When the time comes, most of them will marry the person they are in love with, regardless of his deviations from the blueprint.

But the majority of them demand "culture, looks, money, good humor."

Which proves, if proof were at all necessary, that women, in Hazlitt's phrase, "are an eye-judging sex." And it recalls his advice to his son:

"Look up, laugh loud, talk big, keep the colour in your cheek and the fire in your eye; adorn your person, maintain your health and looks and spirit, and you will pass for a fine man."

Large numbers of men are married who have none of those requirements. Women demand a lot, but it must not be overlooked that they can forgive much.—San Francisco Examiner.

HARD-READING AUTHOR

A publishing concern, believing that the reading public wants to know details about the authors, asked the writer of a current mystery volume what sort of books he read. The author cheerfully submitted a list of his reading, for business and pleasure, in the past two years. Here it is:

"Half a dozen books on criminology, all of Dante, some 30 volumes of history, a quantity of poetry, books on spiritism and travel, and 75 mystery novels."

In numbers alone, the list is impressive. Thirty volumes of history for anybody but a student or a professor is a generous amount of reading matter, even when it is spread over two years. But when it is accompanied by "all of Dante," tomes on criminology, and all the rest, the list makes an average reader feel a little humble.

Now the publishing company might ask the mystery-writer when he does his writing.—Berkeley Gazette.

"White Wings" Make R.C. Harbor Picturesque Sight

Redwood City yacht harbor was the scene of activity Tuesday in preparation for the opening of the yachting season next week-end with the annual cruise of the Redwood City Yacht Club, Ltd.

Some of the craft remained at their berths while their owners overhauled gear, spliced up lines and made their canvas ready for the two-day cruise to Candlestick Point.

Among the "white wings" taking advantage of a fair breeze on the bay yesterday was "Wanderer I," which took a party out as soon as the fog lifted and made port again at dusk.

One of the visiting craft which lay in over the week-end to accept the privileges of the port was the "Mermaid," of the South Bay Yacht Club at Alviso.

The 38-foot tug, "Eagle," owned by W. Thompson of San Jose, did not fare so well. Thompson put into the local port late Saturday afternoon and after pumping out the bilges left a sea-cock open. By 9 o'clock Saturday night the "Eagle" was filled with water and resting at the bottom of the harbor, in spite of the efforts of Dick Svihus, port steward, and City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt to keep her afloat with a portable pump.

Under 12 feet of water at low tide and 20 feet at high tide, the "Eagle" is still resting on the bottom after unsuccessful efforts to raise her in the early hours this morning. A line was made fast to her after midnight, but it parted under the two-ton strain, and it may be necessary to float the boat with the aid of air tanks. No damage is expected to result from the immersion.

A number of outboard motorboats made use of the harbor yesterday and Sunday, indicating that the place will be popular for light craft as well as yachts during the coming season.

Books

By WARE TORREY

An account of American foreign relations during the year 1931 "from a vantage point somewhere between that of the historians who work at their leisure and of daily journalists who work under the pressure of immediacy" was published this week under the sponsorship of the Council on Foreign Relations.

The book, written by Walter Lippmann in collaboration with William O. Scroggs, is titled "The United States in World Affairs, 1931."

An introduction explains the chief problems of the authors in attempting to evaluate so closely many of the events which took place in world history during that year.

"Such a history is essentially an attempt to understand better the immediate present by setting it at once, with complete acknowledgment that the presentation is tentative, in some sort of historical order," they point out.

Weigh Economic Problems

Arbitrarily making the opening of Congress each year the beginning and ending of this book and the volumes proposed to follow annually, Mr. Lippmann and Mr. Scroggs begin their evaluation with "The Economic Depression: the Evolution of American Opinion Prior to December, 1930."

The tale moves forward rapidly and smoothly from that point, showing the problems which confronted congress in view of the general opinions concerning the economic situation, the deepening of the decline in the early part of 1931, and on through the factors which entered into the whole situation.

The Latin-American revolutions, the critical developments in Central Europe, the conditions leading up to the moratorium, the British crisis and its resulting effects upon the United States, all are temporarily weighed.

The book contains an elaborate appendix, which includes a chronology of important events affecting American foreign relations in 1931.

A novel that catches realistically the character and tempo of an English industrial town, "And Now Good-bye" by James Hilton, presents also the single grasp at freedom of an individualistic clergyman whose life is encircled by the town.

Dorothy Scarborough's latest novel, "The Stretch-berry Smile," has a new working-out of the old triangle. The main scenes of the book are laid in the southwest cotton fields. Perla Flippen, to whom the smile belongs, develops a personal creed in which generosity is measured by strength.

Study of Mental Healers

Freud, Mesmer and Mary Baker Eddy are studied in turn in "Mental Healers," in which Stefan Zweig considers through the channel of their lives and doctrines the "question of 'the mind which builds the body.'"

An unusually detailed and feelingful picture of the days of Shakespeare is gained from Eric Linklater's "Ben Jonson and King James." In addition, we have a vigorous account of Jonson's life.

"Portrait of a Paladin," translated by Warre B. Wells from the Spanish of Vicente Huidobro, is a novel woven of episodes from the life of the Cid.

WOMAN HATER

LOS ANGELES.—It's a safe bet that E. G. Alcoron doesn't think as much of the fair sex as he once did—at least one of the sex's members. Riding down one of the city streets in his car, he offered a good-looking girl a ride home. After she was in the car, a short time she drew a gun and took $55 from him.

Menlo Park

Joyce McLarty, sister of Mrs. Richard Cornelison, met a tragic death on her way home from here to her home in Dallas, Texas, on February 19. She was thrown from a bus and killed. Miss McLarty was here on a visit to her uncle, R. W. Park, manager of the Pacific Coast Military Academy. While here she attended the wedding of her sister, Mrs. Cornelison, that took place about a month ago. The accident occurred near Yuma, Arizona. Her many friends in Menlo Park were shocked to learn of the young girl's death.

Barbara and Genevieve Raymond, pretty little daughters of Harvey Raymond, planted a cherry tree in honor of the memory of George Washington in the garden of Councilman E. J. Crane last Monday. The wee tots recited the words of the ceremony in a manner that would do credit to girls much older. Quite a few witnessed the impressive ceremony. The tree will grow and thrive and in due time bear fruit. The little girls will grow to and may pick the cherries that will appear on the tree they planted in honor of the Father of his country.

Next Thursday evening, March 3, at 8:30, the Menlo Parlor N. D. G. W. and N. S. G. W. will give a benefit card party in the school auditorium on the highway. An unusually large list of prizes will be awarded those with the highest scores. Plan to be there and receive your share.

Tomorrow evening, February 27, at 8:15, the Menlo Park Woman's Club will present in the Menlo school auditorium "Comical Country Cousins," by Lieut. Beale Cormack, a patriotic entertainment in one act.

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening. A full membership was present.

Jack L. Hara, poundmaster, presented his resignation and same was accepted.

The petition of Victor Dupont and John W. Morey for a permit to establish a miniature dog course in Menlo Park—which petition was referred to the city attorney at the last meeting—was taken up. Mr. Whitworth reported that the granting of the permit would be legal but the paying off of the workmen in scrip, not negotiable, would be against the state law. Bets could be paid in script but the other proposition would be directly in the teeth of the state statute.

Crane was inclined to oppose the granting of the permit as the council was on record opposing all such propositions. When the race track was to be established in Redwood City some time ago the council adopted resolutions opposing the enterprise on the ground that it might bring gangsters and gamblers to the community. The council would stultify itself. He proposed that an open meeting of the citizens be held to receive the expression of the people on the all important question. On motion of Crane, seconded by Anderson, the public was invited to appear at the city hall at the regular session of the council on March 8 when all will be heard and at which time the matter will be decided.

A. H. Tupper, a prominent resident of Live Oak avenue, was appointed a member of the Menlo Park planning commission to take the place of Doctor Daniel Blackmore, who resigned some time ago. The new member of the commission has taken a prominent part in the civic and political activities of the city.

A policy of State Compensation Insurance was ordered issued for $260.78 at the request of City Attorney George Whitworth. The former policy expires on February 25.

The Allied Arts, owners of lot 11, block 14, Stanford Park, was permitted to make a split assessment of the property, a portion of which was recently sold. The usual resolution was adopted permitting the change in assessment.

The council adjourned to March 8.

Father Lyons, a San Jose Jesuit, will preach in the public chapel of Corpus Christi Monastery every Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the lenten conferences. He will officiate during the remainder of the lenten season. He is a very eloquent preacher.

Mark Loughlin has joined forces with J. J. Harcom in the real estate business in the Mason building. Mark is a rustler and should do well in his new undertaking. He has deserted railroading for the time being.

News of the death of James Stafford Wilson, brother of Mrs. Kenneth Martin, Jr., of Menlo Park, in Tucson, Arizona, last week, was received in Menlo Park. News of his death reached his sister on her way back from Tucson where she had gone because of the serious illness of her brother.

A surprise tea was given last Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. James Armstrong of Menlo Park by a group of friends as a farewell on the eve of her departure for a visit to Europe. The guests, who were all members of the American Legion Auxiliary, were: Mrs. Elizbeth Albin, Mrs. M. M. Agard, Mrs. Dan Ayers, Mrs. K. Berry, Mrs. Pamela Brand, Mrs. Nona Brooks, Mrs. E. P. Duncan, Mrs. Sarah Edwards, Mrs. Patrick Evans, Mrs. W. B. Greenough, Mrs. Ruth Johnson, Mrs. E. D. Nelligan, Mrs. Mildred Nelson, Mrs. W. G. Pattison, Mrs. Guy R. Payne, Mrs. Wilbur Pestell, Mrs. C. E. Pogue, Mrs. B. A. Reads, Mrs. N. Sund, Mrs. J. V. Volk and Mrs. H. S. Williams.

Mrs. Armstrong and her daughter, Jacqueline, leave on February 26, by way of the Panama Canal.

March 6 has been the time set for planting two redwood trees, one at the central and the other at Fremont school, under the auspices of the Native Sons and Daughters. Attorney Charles Bowden, of the public defender's office in San Francisco, will deliver the oration. An interesting program is to be rendered during the impressive ceremony.

CHECKS
.. the wings of Business

EVERY MONTH the banks in California pay checks drawn by their depositors, totaling approximately two billion dollars.

All banks cooperate to speed these wings of modern business. Bank of America alone handles nearly one million checks a day.

Among them are thousands of checks drawn on other Bank of America branches and on different banks in various California cities.

These are forwarded daily—by first train or air mail—direct to our own branches for collection.

Thus, many transactions which ordinarily would require days are completed in a few hours.

Any Bank of America officer will gladly explain this unique direct-routing system—and how it saves time and money for our depositors . . .

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.
